Aaron Boone helps Berlin win its first game of the season against Frankfurt, 30-7.

Aaron Boone, WR, Berlin Thunder 2005

Aaron Boone became a multi-faceted threat today as the Berlin Thunder kicked off their season with a definitive win over last season's World Bowl foe Frankfurt Galaxy.

Boone had five passes come his way, but three were incomplete. He ended up with 2 receptions for 24 yards and no scores. Aaron also made his first professional punt return today. In the third quarter he took a punt back for 15 yards and was pushed out of bounds. On the other end of the special teams, Aaron had one tackle on a kickoff and assist on another.

For all of the Kentucky fans of Aaron Boone, they may find it of interest that the starting QB for Berlin is Dave Ragone, who was the QB at Louisville when Aaron was at UK.

Berlin Fan Day 2005

Berlin Thunder 2005 (Boone on front row #13)

Berlin Thunder held its Fan Day last week at their practice facility. It was well attended by fans. Aaron, always the charmer, was signing autographs and posing with children. He has always loved being around children and thus is a fan favorite in Berlin. Below are some pictures from fan day that I have found from around the web.

First Day of Practice in Berlin

As always, there is a first day of practice. Here are a couple of pictures of Aaron from his first day of practice, which was held after Fan Day was over.
